Two directions, developed further

Monochrome studies · complete parish name · light and dark

01 / Shared Rhythm

Gathering space + collective rhythm

Tabernacle
of Praise

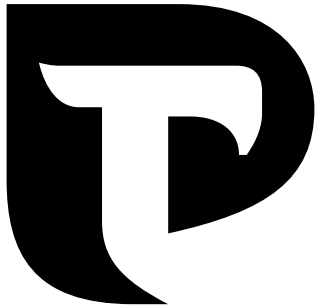

Tabernacle
of Praise

Four unequal folded faces hold a shared open space. Their changing heights suggest people responding together in praise.

Developed: The liked primary form is preserved. The name has more breathing room, and a separate tiny-use drawing opens the intervals.

02 / Open Praise

Tabernacle + Praise through negative space

Tabernacle
of Praise

Tabernacle
of Praise

A P-like outer contour holds an open T-shaped interior. The two letters connect the parish name through one compact gesture.

Developed: A shorter, blunter inner terminal replaces the pointed hook. The open interior is adjusted; the T remains a reading to test.

Top symbols share the same actual ink height. Practical lockups below use the same name scale; the denser Open Praise symbol is 7% smaller for visual balance. Working lettering: Instrument Sans, title case.

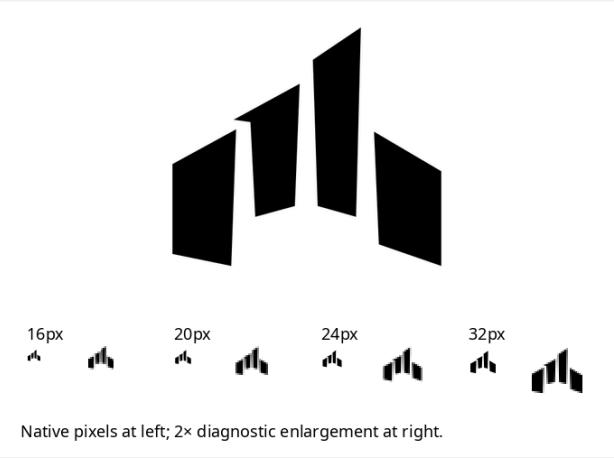

Shared Rhythm

Preserving the form you liked; opening its tiny-use intervals

SHARED RHYTHM / PRIMARY + SMALL-USE OPTICAL CUT

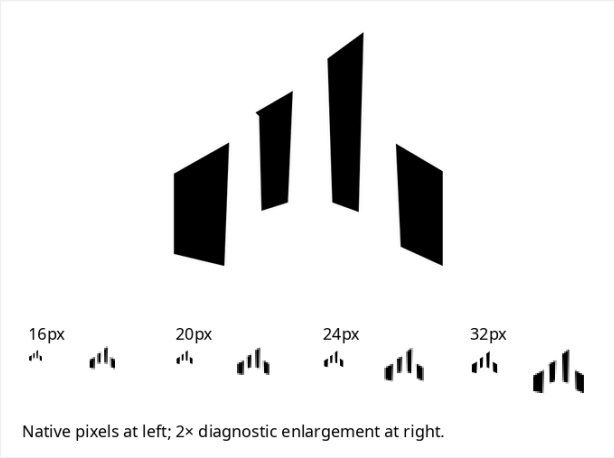

DRAFT — NOT FOR PUBLICATION / same identity, two drawings for different sizes.

Primary / unchanged 08 silhouette

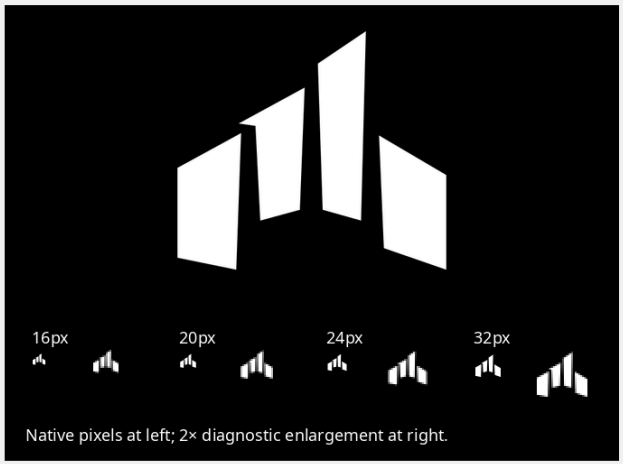

Native pixels at left; 2× diagnostic enlargement at right.

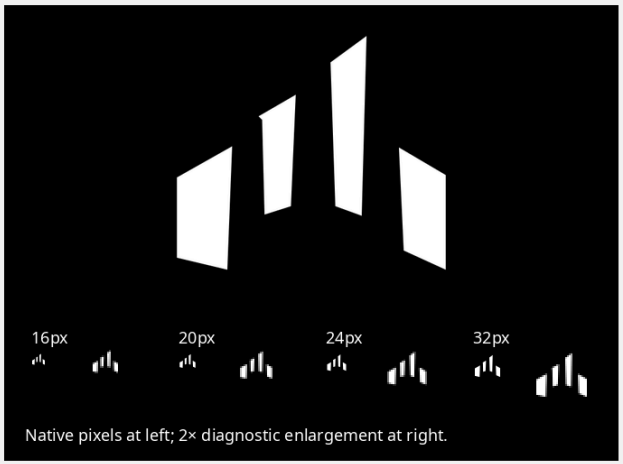

Compact / provisional 16–20 px only

Native pixels at left; 2× diagnostic enlargement at right.

Native pixels at left; 2× diagnostic enlargement at right.

Native pixels at left; 2× diagnostic enlargement at right.

Compact separates the four faces. Folded planes and shared interior are clearest in the primary at 32 px+.

What it expresses

A sanctuary is suggested by four folded faces around an open forecourt. Their uneven rise and fall brings praise into the same arrangement, without adding a separate music icon.

What changed

The main symbol is unchanged from Review 08. A dedicated 16–20 px candidate narrows the faces and opens the intervals while retaining the small fold shoulder.

Where to be careful

The primary feels more coherent at normal sizes. The compact cut looks more disconnected when enlarged and should stay a tiny-use experiment. At 16 px, the result is still an abstract rhythm.

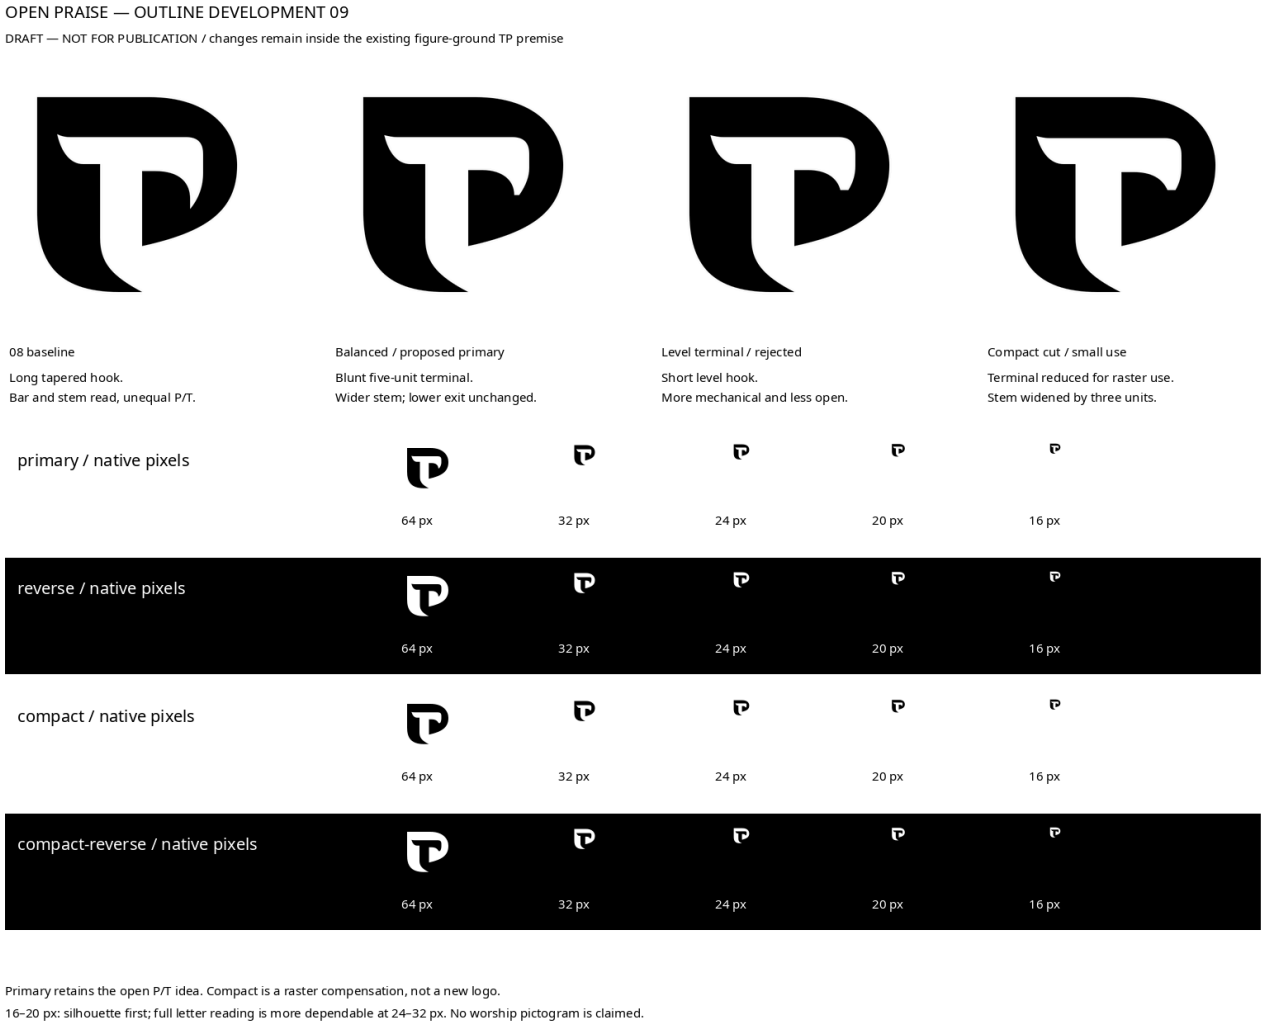

Meaning still to test

Architecture, a cultural venue or property branding are possible associations. Praise is an abstract cadence; the full name and church context remain important.

This proof board is scaled to fit the page. Use the separate native PNGs for 1:1 pixel checks. Minimum-size rules remain provisional.

Open Praise

A calmer interior within the same compact outer silhouette

What it expresses

The outer P and proposed negative T refer to Praise and Tabernacle. The open exit offers a sense of welcome. It is a name-based figure-ground idea, rather than a literal church building or instrument.

What changed

The main outline is the balanced-counter trial shown second in this proof. Its inner hook ends earlier with a blunt terminal, and the negative stem is slightly wider. The level-terminal trial was not taken forward.

Small-use candidate

The compact drawing further widens the negative stem and shortens the tip. At 16–20 px, the silhouette is clearer than the full letter reading. Normal applications retain the primary.

Meaning still to test

The T is inferential and the P may dominate. A publisher, creative studio or luxury identity is another possible association. This refinement does not establish universal letter recognition.

This proof board is scaled to fit the page. Use the separate native PNGs for 1:1 pixel checks. Minimum-size rules remain provisional.

Lettering changes the voice

Three provisional approaches, applied to both directions

Tabernacle of Praise

COMPANION LETTERING • THREE PROVISIONAL APPROACHES

Shared Rhythm

01 Open title case

Instrument Sans • weight 470
Readable, welcoming title case.

02 Measured capitals

Instrument Sans • weight 500
Measured capitals; stronger formal tone.

03 Warm serif

Source Serif 4 • weight 500
Warmer serif; more literary character.

Open Praise

01 Open title case

Instrument Sans • weight 470
Readable, welcoming title case.

02 Measured capitals

Instrument Sans • weight 500
Measured capitals; stronger formal tone.

03 Warm serif

Source Serif 4 • weight 500
Warmer serif; more literary character.

DRAFT — NOT FOR PUBLICATION

Font-based lettering studies. No glyph redraw, font binary modification or typography approval.

01 / Open title case — working choice

Readable word shapes and a welcoming tone. Instrument Sans at weight 470 is used in the new development lockups and application studies.

02 / Measured capitals

A more formal, composed voice. The wide setting brings confidence, but can make the parish feel less personal and require more width at small sizes.

03 / Warm serif

Source Serif 4 adds warmth and a literary character. It can also move the identity toward a traditional institution or publisher.

This board deliberately uses the unchanged Review 08 symbols to isolate the lettering comparison. Current refined symbols appear on the other pages.

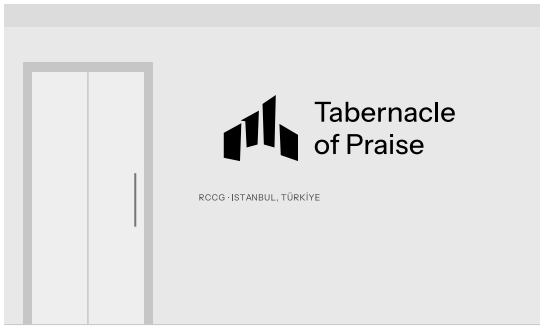

Font-based, outlined and optically spaced; these are original font glyphs, not a claim of custom-drawn type. The type decision remains open.

An identity at the door and on paper

The same quiet layouts and monochrome conditions for both concepts

Shared Rhythm · Entrance sign

01 / ENTRANCE SIGN · PROPORTION STUDY

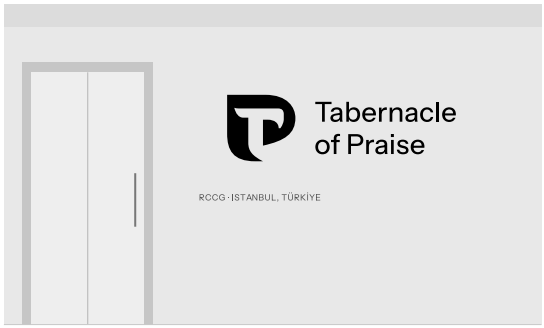

DRAFT — NOT FOR PUBLICATION

Imagined entrance · no actual premises shown

Open Praise · Entrance sign

01 / ENTRANCE SIGN · PROPORTION STUDY

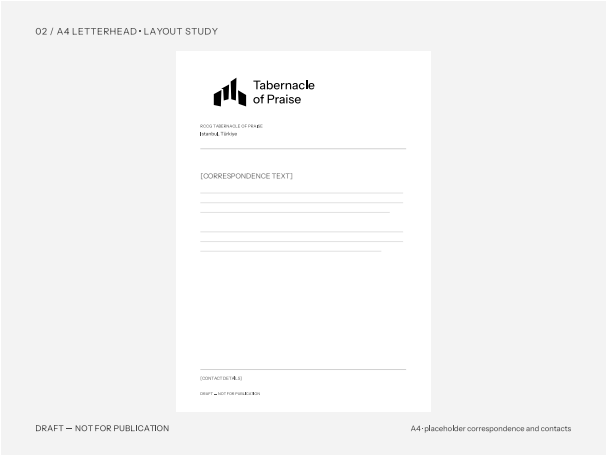

DRAFT — NOT FOR PUBLICATION

Imagined entrance · no actual premises shown

Shared Rhythm · A4 letterhead

02 / A4 LETTERHEAD · LAYOUT STUDY

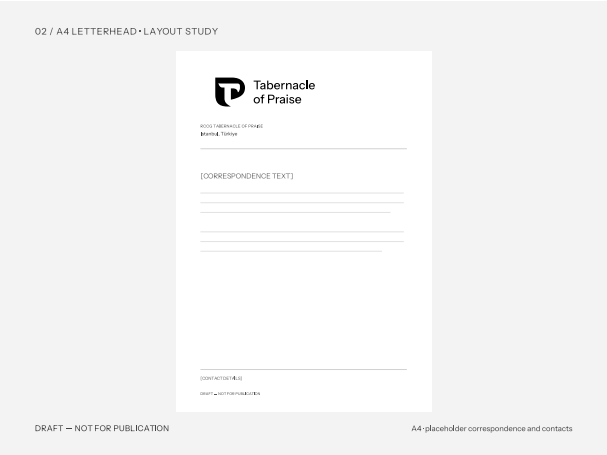

DRAFT — NOT FOR PUBLICATION

A4-placeholder correspondence and contacts

Open Praise · A4 letterhead

02 / A4 LETTERHEAD · LAYOUT STUDY

DRAFT — NOT FOR PUBLICATION

A4-placeholder correspondence and contacts

The entrance is an imagined proportion study. Correspondence, contact details and social handle are placeholders. The original RCCG emblem PNG is absent, so no actual two-emblem pairing is shown.

A clear presence on social media

The same quiet layouts and monochrome conditions for both concepts

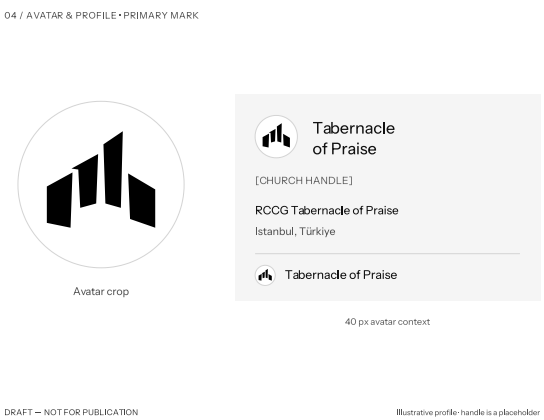

Shared Rhythm · Welcome post

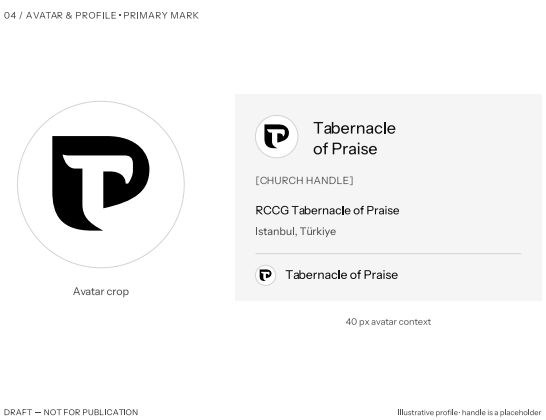

Open Praise · Welcome post

Shared Rhythm · Avatar and profile

Open Praise · Avatar and profile

The entrance is an imagined proportion study. Correspondence, contact details and social handle are placeholders. The original RCCG emblem PNG is absent, so no actual two-emblem pairing is shown.